DPA programs are essential for buyers. Notwithstanding the comment about minorities, DPA programs have been essential for so many since its inception. These programs have to remain as a viable option to purchase. Many of those who are able to afford the mortgage payment of a home, just don't have the additional money to save in order to purchase a home.

Ability to help more borrowers, Unique program features

Minorities

It is a very uniform DPA program that has requirements similar to the bond programs sponsored by each State's CRA initiative. Having this as an alternative to the State CRA initiatives creates a healthy balance in down payment assistance programs that may be offered which opens up the opportunity to homeownership to more low to moderate income borrowers.
